PROLOGUE

CoCo woke up from the loud 'bang' from the town gong. That meant that it was time for training. CoCo, wanting to be the fiercest warrior, was never late to training. For she hoped to be picked for the army of Hamson; the kingdom she lived in.

But this was not the only kingdom in the land of Harshaw. There were many kingdoms. All of them do not get along with each other. There were many differences throughout these kingdoms. All except one. They all had some sort of prophecies...

Chapter 1

The Scroll

CoCo was getting ready for training. She needed a sword, thick armor and a spear. She first had a practice fight. How someone wins the practice fight is that each person has a flag in their back. The other person has to take the flag.

CoCo walked out of the female hamster's locker room. She was facing a boy named Nichole. Everyone knew Nichole. Nichole was a handsome, fierce, warrior. There was even some chit chat that Nichole would be the one to lead an army to destroy the evil throughout the land of Harshaw.

CoCo was also famous. But famous for a bad reason. CoCo was famous for being the weak and ridiculous one. But CoCo had something that Nichole doesn't. She had hope. CoCo believed that she was the one that fit the prophecy. And she prayed every day and every night, hoping to be the leader of the army.

So then, the first part of the practice fight was to pick who could make the first attack. To pick who got to attack first, the referee flipped a coin.

“Heads,” said Nichole.

“Then I’ll take tales,” said CoCo.

The ref flipped the coin.

Nichole got the first attack.

“This should be easy,” muttered Nichole to himself.

Nichole took his spear and threw it at CoCo. The spear caught CoCo’s chain armor and pinned her to the ground. Just when Nichole finished CoCo off, CoCo, still pinned to the ground, elbowed him in the stomach.

“AHH!” screamed Nichole. Nichole was now raging. He was embarrassed to get hurt by a girl. So with all his might and rage, he charged toward CoCo and grabbed hold of the flag.

“I WIN!” bragged Nichole, “I win!! I win!! I win!”

Later that day CoCo was in her secret hideout with her friends.

“Just once I wish I could beat someone in the practice fight,” moaned CoCo.
“Oh wait! I forgot something!” said Abby.
Abby took out a scroll from her bag.
“Here,” she said, handing the scroll to CoCo.
“What's this?” asked CoCo.
“Just open it!” responded Abby.
CoCo opened the scroll. The scroll was in greek.

Translation to English:

The Prophecy:

Take into account that if you are reading this, you promise to fulfill this prophecy. The prophecy of all rodents is to make an army to defeat the evil that lurks in the Land of Harshaw.

"What do you think this means?" asked CoCo, "I don't understand this?"

"I have no idea," responded Violet, another one of CoCo's friends, "maybe one of the of the monks could help us."

Chapter 2

The Monks

"ZHHH" went CoCo's toothbrush. CoCo couldn't wait 'till her friends arrived. They were going to Monk hill. They needed translation to the scroll Abby found.

When CoCo's friends were at CoCo's hill house, they immediately started taking the long 5 mile walk to the hills of the Monks.

"Where did you find that scroll you found?" asked CoCo.

"I found the scroll in an ancient chest when I went on a mining trip," responded Abby, "I thought of how you were always talking about a prophecy so I thought maybe this had something to do with it."

"I don't think I talk about the prophecy a lot. Do I?" asked CoCo.

"A little bit," responded Ruby, "but I find it interesting."

When they finally reached Monk Hill, CoCo immediately got the scroll from her backpack she had brung.

“Knock. Knock.” Ruby knocked on the stone door of the huge Monk wall.

Two mice opened the thick stone door and bowed to the three hamsters.

The three hamsters walked into the Monk Town. They saw people namastaying and a bunch more. But CoCo knew that they weren't there to explore. So then CoCo, followed by her two friends, walked into a temple. CoCo knew that the person in this temple could help them.

“Hello. We have a question,” said CoCo with the scroll in her hand. The Monk nodded basically saying ‘yes’.

CoCo gave the Monk the scroll. The Monk opened it and wrote it in english on the back of the scroll:

The Prophecy:
Take into account that if you are reading this, you promise to fulfill this prophecy. The prophecy of all rodents is to make an army to defeat the evil that lurks in the Land of Harshaw.

"Thank you," said Ruby. The three hamsters bowed in sync.

On the LONG walk home, CoCo wouldn't talk. In fact, she wouldn't stop staring at the scroll. Every now and then, her friends would have to turn her just to not smash into a house.

When they finally reached the small little village where the three friends lived, Abby and Ruby forgot to turn CoCo to the direction of her house. Abby and Ruby just figured that out when they reached CoCo's house.

"Where's CoCo?" said Ruby, hoping that Abby would know where CoCo was.

“I don’t know,” responded Abby, “I think she is lost!”
The two friends panicked and began to search the whole town, hoping to find CoCo.

---------- 5 HOURS LATER ----------

“Have you seen CoCo?” asked Abby to Ruby.
“No,” answered Ruby.

It was getting dark so the two friends went to sleep.

Chapter 3

Poop

CoCo couldn't stop looking at what the Monk wrote on the scroll. She kept wondering what it meant. Could she be the one in the prophecy? Could she be the one to restore peace amongst the land of Harshaw?

Then CoCo lifted her head up to think. CoCo realized that she was lost...

"Poop," CoCo thought, " extreme poop."

CoCo began her journey all the way back to the village she lived in, constantly saying 'poop'. But it was getting dark and CoCo needed to build camp.

"Poop," she thought.

So CoCo got some wood for a fire (while saying poop) and built a nice shelter (while saying poop).

The sun was setting and she knew that it was time to sleep. But then she heard something in the nearby bushes.

CoCo immediately turned to the rattling bush. Then all of the sudden a fox jumped out of the bush towards CoCo.

CoCo didn't have her sword or spear, so she just threw a rock at the fox while saying 'poop'.

"No," said CoCo to the fox acting as the fox's parents. The fox whimpered and demanded a truce.

"Fine," said CoCo; meaning she accepted the truce. Finally she went to bed. But during the night, the fox was planning something very suspicious. The fox set a bunch of prank-traps to the hamster. But these traps are not the kind of traps you use to kill something. These are just prank-traps. Or at least the fox thought so.

7:30 a.m.

CoCo woke up to the sound of a big “CLANG!” When she lifted her back up, a toy axe hit her in her head.
“What??” thought CoCo. She was still half sleeping so she thought she was dreaming. When she tried to get up, she got pulled back down. When she looked to see what was keeping her from getting up, she saw honey.
“WHO DID THIS!!” exclaimed CoCo. With all her might, she tried to get unstuck from the honey. She managed to break free from the honey but the honey took some of her hair. But then, she saw something rustling in the bushes. She walked towards the bush and saw the fox.
She then grabbed the fox by the tale and slapped it left and right and left and right. Then, she said, “NO.”

She began her journey back to her village being very aware of foxes.

While on that journey, she did not say anything. Well that is partially true.
She had to say… poop.

Chapter 4

Airship

“BOOM!” went a cannon. The cannon fired another big, big bullet.
“There!” yelled an obese mole pointing at a treehouse surrounded by rabbits.
The cannon shot the treehouse. Luckily the rabbits escaped just in time.
“There!” cried the obese mole. But the squirrel henchman missed and went in the wrong direction...

“Sheesh!” cried CoCo, “First I get lost. Then I get bullied by a Fox! What next!!”
CoCo could sense something coming her way.
She looked left, right, and down.
“Huh,” thought CoCo, “That's weird.”
Then all of the sudden a huge cannon just missed her.
“Oh-” said CoCo. (I understand younger kids may be reading this.

“Who’s responsible for this?!” yelled CoCo. Then she saw a flying ship.
CoCo thought she was losing her mind, so she picked one of her hairs out, only to know that she was not losing her mind.
She walked towards the airship. Eventually, she started climbing trees, trying to board the skyship. Eventually she jumped onboard.

“HOW DARE YOU TRY TO KILL ME!” screamed CoCo.
The obese Mole came out.
“Hey. I’m the captain here. I have to BARK orders!”
“You should order yourself to go on diets,” joked CoCo.
The Mole was really getting angry.

So he took out his sword from his pocket and swung it at CoCo. He missed.

CoCo teased that he was fat and tripped and missed.

Eventually, the captain grew so tired that he fell down and surrendered.

“Hmph,” said CoCo, “Pathetic.”

When CoCo was about to get off the airship, she turned her head over her shoulder and said, “Never mess with a hamster.” She turned her head back.

Chapter 5

BANG!

CoCo thought that she didn’t really have to rush to get to the village. Besides, it's not like anyone would notice. Plus if they do know, they wouldn’t care.

Even though she thought this, she still knew her friends would grow worried, so she rushed a little.

She entered a new forest area. There were a lot of bear warning signs.

So just to be safe, she built a treehouse rather than a hut.

She had to gather materials; sticks, leaves, etc.

Eventually when she was finished making the tree house, she decided to study the scroll more and more. To be honest it was kind of creepy.

When she was going to sleep, she heard a loud BANG!

She looked down and instantly regretted looking down.
She dropped down all of her leftover food, hoping that would stop the loud BANG!
But the BANG! wouldn’t stop.
“Poop,” said CoCo.

The Bear down below wouldn’t stop banging against the tree. CoCo knew that eventually the tree would fall down. So she jumped from tree to tree hoping to escape the bear and hoping to make it back home...
